2	Aims of the module and acquired skills The module provides a basic knowledge in a second Slavonic language. It addresses students with no or almost no knowledge in the chosen language. At the end of the module students should have gained elementary competences in the chosen language. They get familiar with the theoretical and practical foundations of its grammar. They gain a good reading knowledge and are able to understand scholarly texts in the advanced modules. They learn to communicate in writing and in word on a basic level. The module enables them to recognize and analyse grammatical and syntactic structures.
3	Contents of the module Language skills in all four fields—hearing, speaking, reading and writing—are trained in phonetic exercises, exercises in hearing and reading of standard dialogues and in writing exercises. The courses are partly built on the participants’ knowledge of another Slavonic language, addressing the most important grammatical and lexical differences between the languages. The specific phonetic features of the language and their relation to its orthography are explained. Furthermore students acquire knowledge of fundamental grammatical structures and a vocabulary that enable them to read scholarly texts as well as simple literary texts.
